I spoke to my doctor.
She said it was a weak ov or wrong date. I asked about the ultrasound and she said if I have a paranoid boyfriend we can do the ultrasound but the usefulness is close to 0. What she can do next time is 1 week after I think I ovulated she can do a blood test to confirm and if negative we will know to keep waiting for it and try again in the same cycle. She also said temperature charting is very inaccurate and therefore unnecessary..
Should I get the ultrasound?

No I did not, I don't know what you are talking about.
V didn't send her info yet. I told her to send it.
