Dear Terje,

I am sending you this note to thank for your continued concern and support for my family. Khadiga told me about your last conversation. She is full of appreciation for your kind words and support.

Dramatic developments on our side as I am sure you are following. In fact the entire region is on a knife's edge. As you probably know that my father, after his release, is spending sometime at a military medical facility. He is in fairly good health and following events closely. He has confidence that the current military leadership can steer the country through the difficult times it is facing.

Myself and my brother could possibly be released in the coming few months. We still have some further court proceedings to go through God willing we will prevail and the ultimate truth will be exposed to all.

I look forward to staying in touch once I am out. Khadiga will keep you informed about my developments.

All the best
