Right. Yes I understand. So are you thinking you could come on the early side and then go home to meet her or opposite?

cool! still not sure about tonight. . . if we go, it would most likely just be the two of us -- although we were trying to convince Braden how awesome it'll probably be -- we wouldn't stay long if we brought them.... but you don't even know if they would be invited - right??

thank you! yes, I love my flowers...they are SO fragile though...when they get to hot they completely wilt...I have to be very careful with the water..water does bring them back to life though every time! and yes, the stone is really beautiful. The company we bought the stone from (they also laid it) asked if they could take professional pictures for advertisements for them...they were here last Thursday and will give us some pics once done! But mostly proud of my [REDACTED] !! :)
