We all know that parenting requires a great sense of humor. Luckily, these folks have it in abundance! (I don't think anybody these days passes on stories about cabbages, or storks, though.)

Canadian photographer Patrice Laroche surely will have no trouble explaining to his kids about the birds and the bees. During his wife Sandra Denis' pregnancy, the artist created hilarious explanatory photo series titled "How to Make a Baby". The creative couple planned and carried out their project throughout the whole period of 9 months, taking pictures in the exact same settings as Sandra's belly expanded.

The pregnancy saga of Sandra and Patrice basically denounces the traditional under-the-cabbage and delivered-by-stork stories.
