Hey Marica! I meant to email you and ask how everything went! Glad to know you are happy! I remember despising that surgical bra! Was the absolute worst...hopefully these few weeks will be a very distant memory soon enough and you will be so ecstatic about the results you will know it was all worth it! And how nice that your family is there with you. I always feel sad when a house is full of family and fun and then all of a sudden everyone is gone...Enjoy them while they are there!

Our house plans will be complete by mid to end of august! We are moving right along. OUR renters will be out Sept 15 and I have the ball rolling on the demolition permit and construction permit...in the midst of loan talks with the bank as well. Needless to say, a lot going on. Plus, I just booked us a quick trip to Dallas to see the family Aug. 23-27...school starts on 28! Where did summer go???!! man...hate that!

I want to see a pic of the girls as soon as they are ready ;)

My upgrade is complete! 365cc's now. Everything went well & I cannot wait to take this surgical bra off...but I still have until NEXT Friday!

We've talked about taking the kids to Atlantis (Jake went when he was 9 months old) but I'm not crazy about that place...we'll see.

My mom's been here since Saturday & my sister/kids arrived yesterday afternoon. They've been a huge help w/cooking & laundry! I'm going to be so sad when everyone leaves!

Oh right!!! How exciting! I hope all goes well for you and you are very happy with results! Im sure you will be.

And yes, I told [REDACTED] he used that line on me..must be his go to line! Ewe!

We were in the Bahamas and I highly recommend going with the kids. It is exemsive but it was great. And our room at the Reef was outstanding
