

To: [REDACTED]
From: jena masquelier
Sent: Thur 10/20/2011 4:27:57 PM
Subject: Re: miami

I know you're probably hating me a little for messing up your bday weekend, but I'm not, I promise. The Friday nite class will be sunset and the hottest coolest crowd will be there- maybe celebs too? We can totally eat late- no kids! Remember we used to eat dinner there at 10 or 1030 with the cool kids? Do you want to do steakhouses both Th and Fri night in the hopes we'll meet men who will cover the cost of everything like when we went to Del Frisco in nyc that night?? :) lol

Just wear workout clothes and you'll be barefoot, so no big deal. just make sure your shirt is fitted and won't flip up. You are gonna become a yoga junkie, I already know it. Your runner's legs and hips will write you love letters and thank you notes.

--- On Wed, 10/19/11, [REDACTED] wrote:

From: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: miami
To: "jena masquelier" [REDACTED]
Date: Wednesday, October 19, 2011, 12:05 PM

ok :) I know you want to share what is so special to you with me :)
I wish it wasn't 8pm though! I guess miami is a late night town however...I will change our dinner reservations to what...? 10pm? We will have to take a cab back to our hotel and get ready...is the class 45 minutes? I have to incorporate travel time too....hmmm...maybe I should book something close to our hotel instead of Prime 112 that night cause it is way down on ocean drive...

...and i'm still scared...I'm not sure I have yoga attire!?

On Oct 19, 2011, at 2:42 PM, jena masquelier wrote:

Just an FYI, I reserved our spots for Friday night yoga with Tara Stiles at The Standard Hotel, on the deck overlooking the water. BEAUTIFUL. It'll be really fun and an awesome way to start our night. You will thank me- trust me.
<http://travel.mindbodygreen.com/offers/Tara-Stiles-Yoga-Retreat-at-The-Standard-Miami.html>

Jsut look at how cool it is. Tara Stiles is in nyc most the time- my hero.

I swear, you will LOVE it