HOW DO I KNOW...

Is my child ready for the Communicants Class?

by Katherine Steinbrueck

As parents we often wonder, "Is my child ready to take Communion? How do I know?" The Scriptures make clear what is required of each of us to share in His Table – faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. We know that Jesus does not want us to keep our children from coming to Him in faith (Matthew 19:14), so we do not want to create extra (false) requirements for participation in one of the Lord's primary means of grace for His people, Communion. When our children profess faith, we want to welcome our children to the Table with seriousness, joy, and great hope in the ongoing work of the Spirit in their lives. Here are five considerations that are necessary and helpful when assessing your child's readiness for Communion:

- Interest/Desire – Does your child express an interest in and desire for the Table?
- Corporate Worship – Does your child regularly attend corporate worship?
- Understanding of the Sacrament – Is your child able to talk about what the sacrament of Communion represents, what the elements point to, and why we take it?
- Faith – Does your child profess faith in the Lord Jesus Christ?
- Repentance – Do you see evidence of repentance in your child's life?

Our Elementary and Youth Communicants Classes are held each fall and spring semester. PCPC's next required Parent Intro Meeting, led by our pastors, is available on either August 25 or September 1. Please visit pcpc.org/calendar for more information and registration.

For a covenant child who is not yet ready to profess faith, we offer this encouragement to parents and children: trust in God's faithfulness and recall God's promises. The Lord is seeking our covenant children!

"He who calls you is faithful; He will surely do it." – 1 Thessalonians 5:24

FOUNDATION GROUPS IN MARRIAGE MINISTRY

by Jane Edson,
Communications Specialist

As we wrap up summer and embark upon the school year ahead, the rhythms of life change. For parents, that may mean carpool lines and busier schedules. For Dallas residents, we begin to count down how many days are left of 100-degree heat. But while the seasons change, in marriage, the calling and companionship remain the same. The gift of marriage established by God is something that PCPC takes seriously, seeking to build vibrant marriages through instruction, testimony, and community. The purpose of PCPC's Marriage Ministry is to proclaim the gospel, encouraging men and women to sustain and nourish their marriage through Christ and His Word.

This year, PCPC organized Foundation Groups for newly married couples to study and discuss biblical marriage. PCPC's Foundation Groups are small groups of four or five couples that meet weekly in church members' homes and are facilitated by a seasoned married couple. Through leading Foundation Groups, many couples have experienced rich blessings and have even seen their own marriage strengthened.

Here's what PCPC Member Ashley Ferguson shared about her and her husband's experience leading a Foundation Group:

Serving as a leader doesn't require a résumé. It simply requires a willingness to walk alongside, listen, and share victories and challenges alike ... all the while, mutually seeking God's Word for knowledge and understanding.

In 2016, Brant and I signed up for re/engage at PCPC. Within large group, we were assigned to a small group for more intimate sharing and growing, led by Brenda and Bill Bogart. After we had "graduated" the re/engage program, we began to fellowship often with the Bogart, Overton, and Axley families. In fact, we still have regularly scheduled dinners, to date.

In 2018, we were asked by the Bogarts if we would be willing to host a Foundation Group comprised of young married couples in our home — a great example of growing the big church small. From this small group of newly married couples, came four amazing years of discipling, connecting, and growing, ALL under the precepts that God's Word so graciously outlines. For some seasons, we would strictly follow a curriculum paired with the Bible, and for other seasons, we would use God's Word as our sole source.

Oh, how the young couples' desire to learn brings not only wisdom and guidance into their marriages but also bursts new life and refreshment into what has become stale in our marriage. We knew that we too desperately needed to read and hear what we assigned to them. To serve is to be served!

We, to this day, are in touch and engaged in their lives. We will always be invested and committed to these growing, thriving families... who, when we met, were merely couples. Five couples — the Scotts, the McNeelys, the Worthingtons, the Dragouns, and the Weirs — are now growing families with collectively 10 babies and toddlers.

Married by Skip Ryan at PCPC in 1994 (30 years ago), we had no idea how profoundly the church would grow us as a couple, and shortly after, a growing family of five. PCPC is truly our Kingdom family on earth.

– Ashley Ferguson, PCPC Foundation Group Leader

Experiences like the Fergusons' are a common theme experienced by other Foundation Group leaders at PCPC. God is at work and is faithful to draw hearts closer to Himself!

This fall, PCPC's Marriage Ministry will include opportunities such as UNION (marriage preparation class), Foundation Groups (newly married couples 1-3 years), and Cornerstone (new Sunday Morning Community for newly married couples in their 20s and 30s).
